

Car rental Tangier — Strait views & TNG airport

Tangier links Europe and Africa; perfect for coastal loops toward Asilah or Tetouan. Hashkarat Maroko: popular with Hebrew-speaking travellers exploring Morocco.

The kasbah overlooks the Strait of Gibraltar. With a car continue to Cap Spartel, Asilah or the Rif foothills without changing transport. On a clear day the Spanish coast is visible from the kasbah, and the short ferry link to Tarifa or Algeciras means Tangier still feels like a genuine crossing point between continents, not just a beach town.

This guide is prepared for visitors of Hashkarat Maroko (hashkaratmaroko.com).

City guide

- Kasbah museum & cafés
- Grand Socco & the American Legation Museum
- Cap Spartel
- Asilah day trip
- Hercules Caves

Ibn Battuta Airport (TNG) pickup free. Ferry ports get busy — allow extra time. If you're combining a car rental with a same-day ferry crossing, allow extra buffer time — port procedures can run long, especially in peak summer months. Book via Hashkarat Maroko to lock your preferred car.

Highlights

Kasbah Museum & Gardens

The former Sultan's palace at the highest point of Tangier's kasbah, now a museum of Moroccan art and history, with gardens and terraces looking out over the Strait of Gibraltar toward Spain. On a clear day the Spanish coastline is visible from the viewpoints.

The kasbah's streets are narrow and largely pedestrian, so park near the entrance to the old town and walk up.

Tangier Medina

Smaller and easier to navigate than Fes or Marrakech's medinas, Tangier's old town slopes down from the kasbah toward the port, mixing cafés with a long literary history — Tangier was a favourite base for a number of 20th-century writers. The Grand Socco square at its edge is a natural start or end point for a walk through.

From the medina it is a short drive out to Cap Spartel or along the coast toward Asilah if you want to continue exploring by car afterward.

Good to know

A little history

A strategic port at the meeting point of Africa and Europe, Tangier passed through Phoenician, Roman, Portuguese and other hands over the centuries, and was administered as an international zone by multiple countries from 1923 to 1956 — a period that drew a wave of 20th-century writers and artists to the city.

Local customs

- Dress modestly, especially at religious sites and in more traditional neighbourhoods.
- Ask before photographing people directly, especially women.
- Hagglng is expected in souks and markets; fixed-price shops and restaurants are not negotiable.
- A tip of around 10% is customary at restaurants; small tips for guides and porters are appreciated.
- Friday is the main day of prayer — some businesses close or reduce hours around midday.
- During Ramadan, avoid eating, drinking or smoking in public during daylight hours out of respect.
- Alcohol is available at licensed hotels, bars and some restaurants, but not sold everywhere — public intoxication is frowned upon.
- Driving is on the right; seatbelts are mandatory, and traffic already in a roundabout generally has priority.

Emergency information

- Police: 19 (from any phone)
- Gendarmerie Royale (rural areas / highways): 177
- Fire & ambulance (Protection Civile): 15
- Highway emergency (Autoroutes du Maroc): 5050

For anything involving the rental car itself — breakdown, accident, or any question at all — call or WhatsApp us directly first; we're reachable and can usually help faster than a general hotline. Keep your embassy or consulate's contact details with you separately; Moroccan emergency operators may not speak English.
